

Anthony Gitau

Director Global Program Delivery and Impact, Africa and Middle East, Global Health Equity at Johnson and Johnson

Anthony Gitau is a Graduate of Egerton University with a Bachelor of Science degree in Biochemistry. He is the Director Global Program Delivery and Impact, Africa and Middle East, Global Health Equity at Johnson and Johnson with a mandate to deliver the Global Health Equity mission to advance equitable access to quality care in resource-limited settings, strengthened by J&J's commitment to nurses and community health workers. He was previously Director East Africa at the Children's Investment Fund Foundation (CIFF), Country Head Novartis Social Business, Maternal and Child Health Director at PSI Kenya and manager access to medicines and key accounts at Sanofi for Eastern Africa. Anthony has more than twenty years of experience and knowledge of the Pharmaceutical, Impact Investment and development sector in Africa. He is married and a proud father of 3 sons.